THE PARNAGIAN FAMILY

In 1979, several faculty, alumni and friends of the Jordan College of Agricultural Sciences and Technology had a million-dollar idea – to start a foundation that would benefit, promote and support the college and its programs. The supporters set out to raise $1 million in endowed funds. Today, the Ag One endowment fund is comprised of over 100 named funds totaling more than $19 million.

One of the programs that has contributed to this success is the Community Salute. Since 1987, the Community Salute has honored extraordinary individuals for their devoted service to California agriculture and food systems industries as well as unwavering commitment to our community.

We are delighted to honor the Parnagian Family - brothers Dennis, Ken, Randy and Philip, their Uncle Pete and Cousin Jim. They have helped transform California agriculture and are champions of our communities, which makes them undeniable recipients of this recognition. Proceeds will benefit deserving students and programs in the Jordan College at California State University, Fresno.

Over the years, donors, board members and volunteers have made it possible to award some 4,400 students with over $6.2 million in scholarships and grants. For the current academic year, Ag One will provide approximately $700,000 to deserving students and programs.

Dear Mr. Ross:

Ag One is delighted and honored to bestow the 2019 Community Salute distinction on the Parnagian family; brothers Dennis, Ken, Randy and Philip along with their Uncle Pete and Cousin Jim. They are models of leadership in agriculture, business and our communities which makes them undeniable recipients of this recognition.

We hope you will help us make this a special evening for the Parnagians and for future generations of students who are pursuing degrees in the Jordan College of Agricultural Sciences and Technology at California State University, Fresno. The Ag One Community Salute dinner will be held on the evening of Friday, November 22, 2019 at the Fresno Convention Center Exhibit Hall.

The Parnagian family legacy in California begins in 1943 when Gladys Girazian, a lieutenant in the United States Navy Nursing Corps met Sam Parnagian at the San Diego naval hospital where she worked. Sam was a young marine who had just returned from Pearl Harbor. Two weeks later they knew they were meant for one another and were married on December 2.

Sam established Fowler Packing Company in 1950. He was known for his hard work and innovation and was a pioneer in the fruit industry. With the help of his four sons - Dennis, Ken, Randy and Philip, his youngest brother Pete and his nephew Jim - they grew the family business until his passing in 1980. The "Samsons" label of fresh table grapes remains one of the leading brands after nearly 70 years.

Family, honor and a strong work ethic are core values of the Parnagian family. Together with Uncle Pete's influence and attention to customer service and Cousin Jim's leadership in the family's farming operations, the family has laid a solid foundation for the next generation. After 40 years, the Parnagian family has successfully passed leadership responsibilities to their children. Together the second and third generations have built Fowler Packing into one of the largest growers of table grapes and citrus in the nation.

Sustainability and diversity in businesses is a key focus while the core philosophy remains the customers, growers and employees best interest first. Ask any one of the family leadership and management and they will tell you they couldn't do it without their 2,500 dedicated employees. For this reason they have added on-site cafeterias where free meals are provided for all employees. A health clinic is also located at the main headquarters offering free healthcare and medications for employees and their families. Their investment in their employees doesn't stop there. They established the Fowler Packing Scholars program to help bring the dream of a college education to the children of their employees closer to reality.

Aside from their success in agriculture and business development and service on industry related boards and committees, the Parnagian family has a legacy of generosity in our communities. They volunteer for and support a variety of causes and organizations including Valley Children's Hospital, Central California Food Bank, Fresno State, Fowler schools among many others. And while we could go on and on, we will save the rest of the story for November 22.

We invite you to join us as a sponsor to make this a truly memorable Salute by celebrating and honoring one of our Valleys premier agricultural families while investing in future generations of students at Fresno State. The enclosed brochure outlines the sponsorship opportunities available. All sponsors will be recognized on the invitation as well as at the dinner.

Proceeds from this event will support and benefit deserving students and programs in the Jordan College at Fresno State. Please know your participation as a sponsor will mean a great deal to the students and the college for generations to come.

On behalf of Ag One, please accept our sincere thank you for your support.

Sam established Fowler Packing Company in 1950. He was known for his hard work and innovation and was a pioneer in the fruit industry. With the help of his four sons - Dennis, Ken, Randy and Philip, his youngest brother Pete and his nephew Jim - together they grew the family business until his passing in 1980.

Family, honor and a strong work ethic are core values of the Parnagian family. Together with Uncle Pete's influence and attention to customer service and Cousin Jim's leadership in the family's farming operations, the family has laid a solid foundation for the next generation.

After 40 years, the Parnagian family has successfully passed leadership responsibilities to their children. Together the second and third generations have built Fowler Packing into one of the largest growers of table grapes and citrus in the nation. Sustainability and diversity in businesses are key focuses while their core philosophy remains the customers, growers and employees best interest first.

Ask any one of the family leadership and management and they will tell you they couldn't do it without their 2,500 dedicated employees. For this reason they have added on-site cafeterias where free meals are provided for all employees. A health clinic is located at the main headquarters offering free healthcare and medications for employees and their families. Their investment in their employees doesn't stop there. They established the Fowler Packing Scholars program to help bring the dream of a college education to the children of their employees closer to reality.

AG ONE COMMUNITY SALUTE

In 1979, several faculty, alumni and friends of the Jordan College of Agricultural Sciences and Technology had a million-dollar idea - to start a foundation that would benefit, promote and support the college and its programs. The supporters set out to raise $1 million in endowed funds. Fast forward 40 years and today the Ag One endowment fund is comprised of over 120 named funds totaling $22.5 million.

One of the programs that has contributed to this success is the Community Salute. Since 1987, the Community Salute has honored extraordinary individuals for their devoted service to California agriculture and food systems industries as well as unwavering commitment to our community.

This year, we are delighted to honor the Parnagian Family-brothers Dennis, Ken, Randy and Philip, their Uncle Pete and Cousin Jim. They have helped transform California agriculture and are champions of our communities, which makes them undeniable recipients for this recognition. Proceeds will benefit deserving students and programs in the Jordan College at California State University, Fresno.

Over the years, donors, board members and volunteers have made it possible to award some 4,400 students with over $6.2 million in scholarships and grants. For the current academic year, Ag One will provide approximately $700,000 to deserving students and programs.
